WEBINAR

Intergenerational activities with foreign-born older people

Together through thick and thin - intergenerational support and challenges of foreign-born families in Finland

Summary:

Foreign-born older persons need social support in their every day lives and are expected to get helped by their family members, mainly children and grandchildren. Intergenerational interaction is not always easy and there may be difficulties in the organization of care and questions of self-determination. Family members are blessings and a burden.
